Steve Francis understands the challenges and demands of working in schools. Steve has led a number of Queensland State Schools from a one teacher school through to a large metropolitan school.

After 18 years of successful Principalship with Education Queensland, Steve ventured with his family to Hong Kong as the Principal of Kowloon Junior School, an international school of 900 primary aged students for four great years.

Steve has written three books, “A Gr8 Life...Live it now!”, encouraging people to live for today, “First Semester can make or break you!” and “Time Management For Teachers”. Steve has also created the Happy School article service to help reduce stress for staff in schools and the Gr8 People range of educational resources. Both initiatives are designed to help staff who work in schools to “keep it simple”. Steve is passionate about work – life satisfaction, keeping things simple and supporting those who work in schools to reach their potential.
